MESSAGE DU MINISTERE

Les enfants malagasy méritent une éducation de qualité qui leur permette de s'épanouir dans tous les domaines de leur vie. Telle est la raison pour laquelle le Ministère de l'Education Nationale, par le biais de la Direction du Développement des Intrants Scolaires, a tenu à répondre aux attentes et besoins des enseignants en procédant à la conception de ces fascicules de ressources pédagogiques accompagnant les Programmes d'Etudes (PE) des classes T1 à T9.

Les nouvelles approches pédagogiques préconisées dans le PE exigentdes ressources ainsi que des matériels didactiques adéquats et innovants. Cesdocuments tiennent à la fois compte de l'évolution des sciences de l'éducation etdes exigences du développement durable tout en visant une prise de consciencedes situations spécifiques à chaque région de Madagascar.

Aussi souhaitons-nous, à tous les enseignants, de trouver plaisir en y puisant savoirs, savoir-faire et savoir-être leur servant de sources d'inspirationqui assurent une éducation de valeur basée sur l'innovation et la créativité. Vous témoignant notre reconnaissance, nous vous soutenons dans votre noble mission de toujours aller de l'avant à la recherche de perfection pour le bonheur de tous les enfants de notre pays.

REMERCIEMENTS

Ce‘‘ Fascicule de Ressources Pédagogiques ‘‘ a vu le jour et est arrivé entre les mains de nosenseignants grâce à la collaboration de plusieurs alliés du Ministère de l‘Education Nationale. Nous tenons à adresser nos vifs remerciements à nos partenaires techniques et financiers,dans la conception du présent document, particulièrement :

- au GIZ (Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit) ;
- au WWF et à l‘EDEMA ;
- aux Représentants de la DNEP (Directions Nationales des Écoles Privées).

Nous vous témoignons notre reconnaissance pour votre contribution au profit des enfants malgaches.

AVANT PROPOS

Dans le contexte de la réforme curriculaire qui s'applique à la fois à l'Education Fondamentale et à l'Enseignement Secondaire Général, l'application des programmes d'études (PE) du préscolaire aux classes terminales est généralisée à partir de l'année scolaire 2026-2027. Afin d'accompagner les enseignants dans cette application à échelle nationale, le Ministère de l'Education Nationale, à travers la Direction du Développement des Intrants Scolaires (DDIS), a élaboré des fascicules de ressources pédagogiques. dénommés FRP.

Chacun des fascicules propose aux enseignants des ressources prenant différentes forms, comme des textes, des images et/ou photos, des schémas, des tableaux et d'autres encore. Regroupées en fonction de la modalité de leur utilisation dans le cadre de l'enseignement-apprentissage, ces ressources se divisent en quatre types dont le « support de cours », le « précis de cours », la « ressource documentaire » et le « Guide d'orientation ». Des guides d'exploitation sont proposés dans les premières pages du fascicule afin d'aider les enseignants dans son utilisation.

A l'annexe du document, des théories relatives aux concepts d'Education au Développement Durable (EDD) leur permettront de se conformer aux différentes exigences actuellement incontournables dans le processus de mise en place d'une éducation fondée sur les idéaux et les principes de durabilité, sur une meilleure appréhension de la complexité du monde dans ses dimensions scientifiques, éthiques et civiques. A noter que ces ressources EDD comme celles liées aux thématiques ne sont pas exhaustives.

GUIDE D'EXPLOITATION DES RESSOURCES

Le fascicule de ressources pédagogiques (FRP) constitue un document d'accompagnement du programme : quatre(04) types de ressources y sont regroupés par thématique en vue d'aider l'enseignant dans ses cours. Pour lui permettre de varier son choix, les ressources proposées sont de différentes natures (textes, images et/ou photos, précis de cours, schémas, cartes, etc.). Leur exploitation varie selon leur type et leur nature. Afin de mieux utiliser le FRP, quelques guides d'exploitation sont proposés à titre indicatif. Certaines ressources sont accompagnées de guide spécifique, d'autres à exploiter à l'aide des guides standards ci-après :

LE SUPPORT DE COURS

En général, les ressources « supports de cours » sont des textes parfois accompagnés de figures, de cartes ou de données chiffrées. Elles peuvent également être des images et/ou des photos. Destinées à la fois à l'enseignant et aux apprenants, les « supports de cours » constituent des moyens à mobiliser durant les séances d'enseignement-apprentissage afin de faciliter/favoriser l'acquisition et d'optimiser les résultats scolaires.

GUIDE D'EXPLOITATION DES TEXTES « SUPPORTS DE COURS »

- Faire lire silencieusement (imprégnation individuelle) ;
- Faire faire une lecture globale du document : chapeau, titre, source, auteur, explications de mots difficiles… ;
- Faire repérer les articulations du texte, les mots et/ou expressions clé, ainsi que les champs lexicaux en vue d'explorer son contenu ;
- Orienter la lecture vers les attentes de la thématique traitée ;
- Dégager les idées,/informations et éléments essentiels relatifs à la thématique.

GUIDE D'EXPLOITATION DES IMAGES/PHOTOS « SUPPORTS DE COURS »

- Demander aux apprenants de bien observer l'image/la photo ;
- Poser des questions à partir des éléments iconiques et/ou scripturaux;
- Ouvrir une petite discussion de manière à orienter l'observation vers les attentes de la thématique du cours ;
- Procéder à la synthèse des différentes idées/ diverses opinions qui ont émergé durant la discussion ;
- Consolider ou établir le lien entre les éléments de l'image ou de la photo à la thématique du cours ;
- Sensibiliser les apprenants sur les valeurs socioculturelles et économiques pouvant être véhiculées dans l'exploitation de l'image/photo.

LES RESSOURCES DOCUMENTAIRES

Les ressources documentaires sont généralement des textes parfois accompagnés de figures, de cartes ou de données chiffrées. A la différence des ressources « supports de cours », celles documentaires sont destinées uniquement à l'enseignant et lui servent de banque de connaissances pour maîtriser le savoir à enseigner.

GUIDE D'EXPLOITATION DES TEXTES « RESSOURCES DOCUMENTAIRES »

- Faire une lecture globale du texte : chapeau, titre, source, auteur, explications de mots difficiles… ;
- Procéder à une lecture analytique du texte ;
- Soutirer les informations essentielles relatives au thème traité et nécessaires au cours ;
- Synthétiser les informations à retenir dans le cadre du cours,
- Reformuler les informations qui seront éventuellement insérées dans la trace écrite.

LE PRECIS DE COURS

Le précis de cours est présenté sous forme d'une leçon toute faite comportant déjà les éléments cognitifs nécessaires à la construction du savoir. Aussi reste-t-il à l'enseignant de faire le choix, soit il applique directement le précis de cours, soit il s'en sert comme tant d'autres ressources.

GUIDE D'EXPLOITATION DES PRÉCIS DE COURS

- Lire intégralement le précis de cours ;
- Appréhender sa structure et ses contenus
- S'approprier du raisonnement de la leçon et de la progression des contenus
- Vérifier si tous les éléments de connaissances nécessaires à la thématique traitée y sont présents (noter les éléments manquants en vue d'un rajout.) ;
- Epouser le raisonnement/progression du précis de cours, ou s'en inspirer pour en construire de nouveau ;
- Elaborer la fiche de préparation pédagogique à partir du précis de cours.

LES GUIDES D'ORIENTATION

Les « guides d'orientation » sont destinés uniquement à l'enseignant. Comme leur nom l'indique, ils servent de guide permettant d'orienter l'enseignant dans l'exploitation des matières locales à moindre coût, voire gratuites, pour fabriquer et utiliser ses propres matériels didactiques et pédagogiques ou pour préparer méthodiquement ses cours.

EXPRESSING PREFERENCES

Would rather

• I would rather ('I prefer', 'I would prefer') is used as a modal auxiliary verb.

It is followed by the infinitive (without 'to') when its subject is the same as the subject of the next verb. This happens when we talk about what we would prefer to do.

- I would rather (or I'd rather) stay with you. I would prefer to stay with you.
- What would you rather do instead? What would you prefer to do instead?
- She'd rather not see me. She'd be happier not to see me.
- Wouldn't you rather stay on the beach? Wouldn't you like it better if we stayed on the beach?

Verbs that require gerund

We use VERB+ING (gerund) after verbs that express general preference, such as: love, like, don't mind, dislike, don't like, hate, enjoy and prefer.

- I likeswimming, but he hatesswimming.

- I enjoyswimming, but he dislikesswimming.

Remarks:

If the verb ends in consonant + "e", we drop the "e" and add ING.

- Example: I'm having a good time

If the verb ends in consonant + vowel + consonant, we double the final consonant.

- Example: I'm beginning to understand this.

DIALOGUE: « What do you want to eat? »

- DIALOGUE: FOOD PREFERENCES

This dialogue includes most of the basic questions you'll need to know when going to a restaurant alone. Practice it with a friend.

- Waitperson: Hi. How are you doing this afternoon?
- Customer (you): Fine, thank you. Can I see a menu, please?
- Waitperson: Certainly, here you are.
- Customer: Thank you. What's today's special?
- Waitperson: Grilled tuna and cheese on rye.
- Customer: That sounds good. I'll have that.
- Waitperson: Would you like something to drink?
- Customer: Yes, I'd like a coke.
- Waitperson: Thank you. (Returning with the food) Here you are. Enjoy your meal!
- Customer: Thank you.
- Waitperson: Can I get you anything else?
- Customer: No thanks. I'd like the check, please.
- Waitperson: That'll be $14.95.
- Customer: Here you are. Keep the change!
- Waitperson: Thank you! Have a good day!
- Customer: Goodbye.

- AT A RESTAURANT WITH FRIENDS

Next, use this dialogue to practice speaking at a restaurant when eating with friends. The dialogue includes questions to help you choose what to eat. For this role-play, you'll need three people instead of two.

- Kevin: The spaghetti looks really good.
- Alice: It is! I had it the last time I was here.
- Peter: How is the pizza, Alice?
- Alice: It's good, but I think the pasta is better. What would you recommend?
- Waitperson: I'd recommend the lasagna. It's excellent!
- Alice: That sounds great. I'll have that.
- Waitperson: Fine. Would you like an appetizer?
- Alice: No, lasagna is more than enough for me!
- Kevin: I think I'll have the lasagna as well.
- Waitperson: Right. That's two lasagnas. Would you care for an appetizer?
- Kevin: Yes, I'll take the calamari.

- Peter: Oh, that sounds good! I can't decide between the chicken marsala and grilled fish.
- Waitperson: The fish is fresh, so I'd recommend that.
- Peter: Great. I'll have the fish. I'd also like a salad.
- Waitperson: What would you like to drink?
- Kevin: I'll have water.
- Alice: I'd like a beer.
- Peter: I'll take a glass of red wine.
- Waitperson: Thank you. I'll get the drinks and the appetizers.
- Kevin: Thank you.

TEXT: MY FUTURE PLAN

TEXT 1: My future plan

Since my father is in Army, I have always admired and respected him. He is my idol. One day, I will walk after him, I will graduate from school in two years and then I will join the hands of those patriots. I will sit for the NDA examination and will surely pass out if I get up to that status. My family will be so proud of me. I will protect the people of my country and I will fight to death for them.

Reading comprehension questions:

1. Who does the author admire and respect in their family?
2. What is the author's future plan in relation to their father?
3. How many years does the author plan to graduate from school?
4. What examination does the author mention, and what does it stand for?
5. What is the author's goal after passing the NDA examination?
6. Why does the author think their family will be proud of them?
7. What is the ultimate commitment the author expresses towards their country and its people?
8. How does the author describe their father in the text?
9. What emotions and values does the author associate with their decision to join the Army?
10. How does the author plan to follow in their father's footsteps?

Hana: Hello, how are you?
Daniel: I'm good, thanks. How are you?
Hana: I'm good. So, what are you going to do this weekend?
Daniel: Well, on Saturday I think I'm going to go to the gym because I haven't been there for a while. And then I think I need to clean my house because I didn't have time during the week, and it is a bit messy now. And in the evening, I think I'm going to have dinner with my friends.
Hana: Are you going somewhere after dinner?
Daniel: I don't think so. I really want to spend this weekend in a really relaxed way, so I don't think I'm going anywhere after dinner.
Hana: I see. How about Sunday?
Daniel: Well, on Sunday, I'm not going to do anything in the morning. I really want to take a rest, and then I'm going to have lunch with my family because I haven't seen them for a while, and then in the afternoon, there's this movie I really want to see, so I'm going to the cinema with my friends.

PAST HABITS

- Text

When she was younger, Sarah used to get up early every morning and go for a run in the park. She was used to feeling refreshed by the cool morning breeze on her face. However, as life became busier with work and family responsibilities, her morning runs gradually became a thing of the past.

Nowadays, Sarah neither runs nor wakes up early. In the evenings, yoga has become her new habit. Initially, it was a strange experience for her to switch from morning runs to evening yoga sessions. With time, she began to appreciate the calm and peaceful feeling it brought to her busy days.

The changes in Sarah's routine not only impacted her exercise habits but also influenced her dietary choices. She used to eat fast food frequently, but now she chooses healthier homemade meals. transition wasn't easy, but Sarah is proud of the positive changes she's made for her well-being.

LINKING WORDS TO EXPRESS CONTRAST

ALTHOUGH, DESPITE, EVEN IF, EVEN THOUGH, IN SPITE OF, MUCH AS, THOUGH, WHEREAS AND WHILE

They are all used to link two contrasting ideas or show that one fact makes the other fact surprising. They can all be used at the beginning or in the middle of the sentence.

In spite of and despite

After in spite of and despite, we use a noun phrase or -ing form of a verb.

- We arrived on time in spite of missing the train.
  Their restaurant succeeded despite the bad reviews.
- It's common to use in spite of and despite with the expression the fact that, so that it can be followed by a subject and verb.
- We arrived on time, in spite of the fact that we missed the train.
- Their restaurant succeeded, despite the fact that they received bad reviews.

Although, though and even though

After although, though and even though, we use a subject and a verb. They mean the same thing, but even though is slightly stronger and more emphatic than although and though.

- Although Marjorie lost the election, many more people voted for her than the first time.
  I love my Italian conversation class, though I struggled at first.
  Even though my team lost, it was great to be in the stadium for the final.
- Though can also go at the end of the second phrase. This way of expressing contrasting ideas is most common in spoken English.
- I didn't know anyone when I first got to uni. I soon made friends, though.

Even if

Even if means 'whether or not' or 'no matter whether'. It's followed by a subject and a verb.

Even if you are an expert swimmer, you should be careful at this beach.

While and whereas

- While is a conjunction that is most commonly used with time, but it can also be used to mean 'despite the fact that' or 'although'.

- While I made some mistakes in my driving exam, I still passed.
- In this sense, while comes at the beginning of the sentence.
- While and whereas can be used to mean 'but' or 'compared with the fact that', to compare two contradictory ideas.
- While/Whereas Ivan is very sociable, his brother is more reserved.
  My trip home was quick and easy, whereas/while my colleagues were delayed for hours.

(In this sense, while/whereas can come at the beginning of the sentence or between the two contradictory clauses.)

Much as

Much as is a more formal expression. It means 'although', 'despite how much' or 'no matter how much'.

- Much as I enjoyed studying abroad, it was good to return home.

EXPRESSING EATING HABITS

We use different expressions to talk about what we eat, how often we eat, and healthy eating habits.

Examples:

- I usually eat rice for lunch.
- I always eat breakfast.
- I sometimes eat fast food.
- I rarely drink soft drinks.
- I never skip breakfast.

GRAMMAR FOCUS

1. SHOULD / SHOULDN'T

Use

We use "should" to give advice.

Structure:

Subject + should + base verb

Examples:

- You should eat healthy food.
- You should drink plenty of water.
- We should eat more vegetables.

Negative:

Subject + shouldn't + base verb

- You shouldn't eat too much junk food.
- You shouldn't drink too many sugary drinks.

2. FREQUENCY ADVERBS

Use

We use frequency adverbs to say how often we do something.

Frequency	Adverb
100%	Always
80%	Usually
50%	Often
30%	Sometimes
10%	Rarely
0%	Never

Examples:

- I always eat breakfast.
- She usually drinks milk.
- They often eat fruit.
- He sometimes eats pizza.
- I rarely drink soft drinks.
- We never skip breakfast.

Position :

Subject + frequency adverb + verb

Example :

- I usually eat rice.

With the verb be:

Subject + be + frequency adverb

Example:

- She is always hungry.

☆ 3. COMPARATIVES

Use

We use the comparative to compare two things.

Structure:
Short adjective + -er + than or more + long adjective + than
Examples:

- Fruit is healthier than sweets.
- Water is better than soft drinks.
- Vegetables are more nutritious than junk food.

4. SUPERLATIVES

Use

We use the superlative to compare three or more things.

Structure:
the + adjective + -est
or
the most + adjective
Examples:

- Water is the healthiest drink.
- Fruit is the most nutritious food.
- Junk food is the least healthy food.

5. LINKING WORDS

A. CONTRAST

Use

We use linking words to show a difference or contrast.

BUT

- I like chocolate, but I don't eat it every day.
- Fast food is delicious, but it is not always healthy.

HOWEVER

- I like pizza. However, I don't eat it often.

B. CONSEQUENCE

We use linking words to show a result or consequence.

SO

- I want to stay healthy, so I eat vegetables.

THEREFORE

- Junk food contains a lot of sugar. Therefore, we shouldn't eat too much of it.

SUMMARY

Grammar	Use	Example
Should	Advice	You should eat fruit.
Shouldn't	Negative advice	You shouldn't eat too much sugar.
Frequency adverbs	How often	I usually eat breakfast.
Comparative	Compare 2 things	Fruit is healthier than sweets.
Superlative	Compare 3+ things	Water is the healthiest drink.
But / However	Contrast	I like pizza, but I don't eat it often.
So / Therefore	Consequence	I am thirsty, so I drink water.

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN FAMILY MEMBERS

PARENT AND CHILD CONFLICT

Parent and child conflicts can occur for many reasons. When conflict occurs, the entire family can be thrown into emotional turmoil. Resolving a parent and child conflict requires the participation of everyone involved. Types of parents and child conflict:

1. Inevitable conflict: When parents or caregivers cannot always be attentive, mindful and sensitive, it can cause the child to feel disconnected.

2. Boundary conflict: This occurs when parents attempt to set limits with their children. Setting limits can create tension between the parent and child, creating an emotional disconnect.

3. Intense conflict: This involves intense emotional distress and a significant disconnection between parent and child. This occurs when a parent loses (control of his or her emotions and engages in screaming, name-calling or threatening behavior toward the child).

TEXT: Modern medicine and traditional medicine

MODERN MEDICINE AND TRADITIONAL MEDICINE

Traditional medicine is the use of natural remedies, such as herbs, rituals, and other plants, to prevent or treat different kinds of illnesses. Modern medicine on the other hand is the use of scientifically approved therapeutic systems and diagnostic methodology to treat illnesses.

…Traditional medicine is often used in developing countries because it's less expensive than modern medicine. Many people in developed countries also use traditional medicine because they believe it's more natural than modern medicine.

…Traditional medicine is often used in developing countries because it's less expensive than modern medicine. Many people in developed countries also use traditional medicine because they believe it's more natural than modern medicine.

Modern medicine is a broad term that mostly refers to the practice of medicine in the 20th and 21st centuries. It includes all aspects of medical care, from diagnosis to prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation.

Modern medicine is grounded in science, as opposed to traditional medicine which may be grounded in cultural practices or religious beliefs.

RELATIVE PRONOUNS

Definition: A relative is someone who has a relationship with you. Relative pronouns show a relationship between a noun and a clause. The clause provides describing information about the noun. You can also use relative pronouns to combine two sentences into one.

Relative Pronouns
That	Which	Who	Whom	Whose

Note:

Some relative pronouns may look like interrogative or demonstrative pronouns, but thatdoesn't mean all three types of pronouns do the same job

- Who, whom, and whose relate to people (or pets if you refer to them by name).
- Which is used with objects.
- That is preferably used only with objects, but you will see it used with people. Try to get in the habit of using who with people instead of that. It is more polite.

Examples of Relative Pronouns

I like roller coasters that have lots of loops.

(that = roller coasters)

Ice cream, which is my favorite dessert, tastes very refreshing on a hot summer day.

(which = ice cream)

Teachers who have a sense of humor are easy to get along with.

(who = teachers)

My cousin, who is from Illinois, visits me every year.

(who = my cousin)

The friend whom you saw yesterday wants to go out again tonight.

(whom = friend)

The man whose shirt was stained rushed home for a change of clothes.

(whose = the man's)

why do we use relative pronouns?

1- In each of these sentences, you can see that the relative pronoun introduces additional information about the noun.

2- You can also use relative pronouns to combine two sentences. This feature makes relative pronouns an excellent tool for improving your writing. Take a look at the following two sentences:

- The team won the championship. The team went to Disneyland to celebrate.

The team that won the championship went to Disneyland to celebrate.

Note:

Even though relative pronouns can be used to connect clauses, they are not the same as conjunctions. A relative pronoun fulfills two roles: it serves as both a pronoun and a connector. On the other hand, a conjunction's one and only role is to connect two clauses. Conjunctions can never be pronouns.

As you have probably already noticed, many interrogative, demonstrative, and relative pronouns look exactly the same. In order to tell the difference, you must analyze how these pronouns are being used in a sentence. If they are being used to ask a question, they are interrogative. When you use them to show or point to something, they are demonstrative. You will know if a pronoun is relative if

1) the pronoun introduces describing information about a noun or 2) the pronoun is acting like a conjunction.Belowyou'llseesomeexamplestohelpyouunderstand the differences.

Interrogative	Whom did you ask about the movie times? (The pronoun whom is being used to ask a question.)
Relative	Dave is the person whom you asked about the movie times. (The pronoun whom is being use to introduce additional information about Dave.)
Demonstrative	That is the book I found. (The pronoun that shows which book I found. It may help you to imagine someone pointing to the book.)
Relative	I found the book that you lost. (book I found = book you lost) (The pronoun that connects the two sentences You lost the book and I found the book. It also gives us some describing information about the book.)

Res 6-f: Course guide

IF CLAUSE TYPE 2

Conditional clauses consist of two sentences. One is a clause that starts with if, which is called as 'if clause'. The other is called the Main clause. Each sentence has a verb. It is important to know which tenses are to be used in these clauses and they play a big role in determining the meaning of the sentence.

Detailed information for the type 2 is given below:

Form of The Type 2:

The tense in if clause is generally simple past tense; the tense in main clause is generally would although there are different uses which we will specify below.

Type	If clause (condition)	Main clause (result)
Type 2	If + Simple past Past Continuous Past Modals (could, had to…)	would could + V1 or be + V-ing might

- I have worked here for ...
- I look forward to hearing from you.

Example:

I am writing to apply for the position of teacher.
I have worked as a teacher for five years.
I have been working at this school since 2021.

GRAMMAR FOCUS

1. PRESENT PERFECT: CONTINUING EVENTS

We use the present perfect to talk about an action that started in the past and continues until now.

Structure:

Subject + have / has + past participle

Examples:

- I have worked here for five years.
- She has lived in Antananarivo since 2020.
- They have studied English for three years.

2. SINCE + STARTING POINT

We use since to say when an action started.

Structure:

Present perfect + since + year / date / starting point

Examples:

- I have worked here since 2021.
- She has lived here since January.
- He has studied English since 2023.

Since = starting point

3. FOR + DURATION

We use for to say how long an action has continued.

Structure:

Present perfect + for + duration

Examples:

- I have worked here for five years.
- She has lived here for two months.
- We have studied English for three years.

For = duration

☆ SINCE OR FOR?

SINCE	FOR
since 2020	for five years
since Monday	for two days
since January	for three months
since 8 o'clock	for two hours

Examples:

- I have worked here since 2020.
- I have worked here for six years.

4. PRESENT PERFECT vs SIMPLE PAST

🟢 PRESENT PERFECT

We use the present perfect when the action is connected to the present or continues until now.

Examples:

- I have worked here for five years.
- She has lived here since 2020.

➡ She still lives here now.

SIMPLE PAST

We use the simple past for a completed action at a finished time in the past.

Examples:

- I worked there in 2020.
- She lived there for two years.
- He applied for a job last month.

➡he action is finished.

SUMMARY

Grammar	Use	Example
Present Perfect	Continuing action	I have worked here for 5 years.
Since	Starting point	since 2021
For	Duration	for 5 years
Simple Past	Finished action	I worked there last year.

SPEAKING ABOUT ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES

Answer to the following questions:

- Do you think pollution is a big problem nowadays?
- What do you do to prevent the environment from pollution?
- Are you worried about climate change?
- Do you take interests in nature?

Res 8-d: Course guide

WRITING

Describe an environmental problem you've heard about.

Students should say:

- What it is
- How long it has existed
- How it affects people's lives
- And propose solutions.

Example:

« There are a number of serious environmental problems being covered by the media at the moment but the one I'd like to talk about is deforestation of vast areas of rainforest to grow palm oil. I'm not sure when it started to become a concern to environmentalist but I know that they are increasingly worried about it. This land clearance is on a huge scale and the forest is often just burned down. This sends a large amount of greenhouse gas emissions into the atmosphere which contribute to global warming and climate change. This affects everyone on the planet. Just as important is the effect on the native wildlife. Deforestation to grow palm oil in Borneo and Sumatra destroys the natural habitat of orang utans as well as many other animals. The planting of trees and plants can help to care for the natural environment. »

IF CLAUSE- TYPE 2

- Type 2 is used to think of the opposite of an event that is happening in the present or in the future, to put forward a condition and to express the result of this imaginary condition.
- Therefore, the tense that we can use must be a bit more past than the tense that we will use to express the truth.

Example Sentences

- If she knew the answer, she would win the prize. (but she doesn't know the answer)
- If he had enough experience fort he job, the boss could hire him. (but he doesn't)
- If I had your phone number, I would call you. (but I don't have your phone number)
- If you came to the party, we would have a lot of fun. (but you don't come to the party)
- If I were a rich man, I would buy a home like palace. (but I am poor)
- If I could speak english very well, I would look for a job in foreign companies. (but I can't)
- If he had time, he would study well for his exam. (but he doesn't have time)
- If it didn't rain, we would go on a picnic. (but it is raining)
- If my house was in the forest, I would walk constantly in the green. (but my house doesn't in the forest)

He can't stand making speeches

Albert and Wendy Wedge are at the Bus-drivers' Social Club. It's the Annual Dinner and Dance. Albert's President of the Social Club. He doesn't mind being President. But tonight he's got to make a speech. He can't help feeling nervous. He can't stand making speeches. He hates being in front of a lot of people. Poor Albert hasn't even finished eating his dinner. He usually loves eating. But he isn't hungry tonight. Suddenly he can hear a voice saying "Now Albert Wedge is going to talk to us." "Oh dear," Albert's thinking, "I don't feel like talking to anyone. I feel like going home. Why doesn't everyone go on eating? Why don't they go on chatting?" But there's silence in the room. Everyone's stopped eating and chatting. They've stopped to listen to Albert. They're all looking at him. He can't get away now.

RESSOURCES INTEGRANT L'EDD

L'éducation au développement durable (EDD) constitue un processus d'apprentissage ou une approche d'enseignement fondée sur les idéaux et les principes de durabilité quels que soient le niveau et le type d'éducation. Elle permet d'appréhender la complexité du monde dans ses dimensions scientifiques, éthiques et civiques. Figurant dans les programmes d'études, elle vise la formation de citoyens responsables nourris de culture, de compétence et de savoir-être leur permettant de prendre de « décisions éclairées » aujourd'hui comme à l'avenir en vue de garantir la survie de l'humanité.

Les objectifs spécifiques relèvent, en premier lieu, de l'éradication de la pauvreté sous toutes ses formes avec en priorité la lutte contre la faim par la consommation responsable. Il est ainsi question de l'accès à la santé, à une éducation de qualité, à des emplois décents, à l'eau salubre et à l'assainissement. L'éducation au développement durable se veut, en second lieu, protéger la planète, la faune et la flore contre le changement climatique et suggère le recours aux énergies renouvelables, à l'innovation et aux infrastructures. En dernier lieu, elle a pour but de garantir la prospérité pour tous avec la réduction des inégalités, le règne de la justice et de la paix ainsi que l'absence de discrimination entre les sexes.

Donc selon ces objectifs, l'EDD traite comme thématiques:

- La lutte contre la pauvreté, la famine et les formes de discrimination ;
- La mondialisation (l'innovation et la créativité) ;
- La protection de l'environnement (la désertification, la pollution…);
- Le changement climatique et les énergies renouvelables ;
- L'éducation et le travail décent ;
- La justice et la paix (la quête du bonheur…);

Afin d'y parvenir, nous suggérons les stratégies suivantes:

- L'intégration des éléments de l'EDD dans les programmes d'études et les fascicules de ressources : principes de base, attitudes à adopter, approches à appliquer et valeurs véhiculées ;
- La sensibilisation, la conscientisation et la formation des enseignants à l'EDD.

SYNTHESE

L'EDD ne se limite pas à l'acquisition de connaissances, elle incite à la prise de conscience et inculque des valeurs qui conduisent à l'action et aide l'individu à avoir une estime de soi tout en respectant son environnement. En formant des citoyens responsables, elle contribue à une bonne gestion des ressources naturelles afin d'éradiquer toute forme d'exploitation irrationnelle et de trafic illicite.

Cette politique trouve ses fondements dans les grands principes régissant le DD :

- Le Principe de précaution incitant à ne pas attendre l'irréparable pour agir ;
- Le principe de prévention interpellant l'adage « mieux vaut prévenir que guérir ». A la base de ces deux premiers principes se trouve donc l'éducation ;
- Le principe d'économie et de bonne gestion focalisé sur l'une des missions de l'EDD : réduire les gaspillages car « qui veut voyager loin, ménage sa monture » ;
- Le principe de responsabilité où celui qui dégrade doit réparer car chaque citoyen est responsable de ses actions vis-à-vis de l'environnement ;
- Le principe de participation qui sous-entend que les questions environnementales sont l'affaire de tous car tous sont concernés, tous sont décideurs et tous sont acteurs ;
- Le principe de solidarité dans le temps et dans l'espace impliquant que l'environnement que Madagascar possède est un bien commun et qu'il faut réduire les fossés entre riches et pauvres.
- Le principe d'équité intergénérationnelle qui exhorte à léguer aux générations futures un monde viable en encourageant l'équilibre entre développement et environnement, une autre mission de l'EDD ;
- Le principe de transversalité et de globalité incitant à la planification des objectifs et à leur traduction en stratégie d'actions. En effet, l'environnement a un caractère transversal et par conséquent, l'EDD l'est aussi. Ceci implique la notion de partenariat et de coopération ;
- Le principe de subsidiarité soutenant les initiatives qui traitent les problèmes localement dans le respect de la culture et des valeurs régissant les populations autochtones.
